Biography

Jennifer Lee Keeter holds a Master of Landscape Architecture from the Harvard Graduate School of Design and a Bachelor of Arts in Architecture from the Sam Fox School of Architecture at Washington University in Saint Louis. Jennifer received an ASLA Certificate of Honor upon graduation from the GSD for her collective body of design work and academic research. She currently manages a mixture of residential and institutional projects at Reed Hilderbrand while also pursuing her passion for dance as an assistant teacher at her local studio. Jennifer has recently started developing her filmmaking skills in order to express the richness of time and movement in landscapes as an integral part of design.
